Location-Based Services

Key to Mobile Internet 'Secret Sauce'

Thanks to the iPhone 3G and, to a lesser extent, Google's Android phone, millions of people are now walking around with a gizmo in their pocket that not only knows where they are but also plugs into the Internet to share that info, merge it with online databases, and find out what – and who – is in the immediate vicinity...Simply put, location changes everything. This one input – our coordinates – has the potential to change all the outputs. Where we shop, who we talk to, what we read, what we search for, where we go – they all change once we merge location and the Web.

– Mathew Honan, WIRED magazine, 1/19/09

Apple Mobile Share Should Surprise on Upside Near Term

Near term, Apple is driving the platform change to mobile computing. Its mobile ecosystem (iPhone + iTouch + iTunes + accessories + services) market share / impact should surprise on upside for at least the next 1-2 years.

Long term, emerging markets competition, open mobile web (paced by likes of Google Android) and carrier limitations pose challenges. RIM likely to maintain enterprise lead for 1-2 years owing to installed base.

Next Generation Platforms (Social Networking + Mobile) are Driving Unprecedented Change in Communications + Commerce

Improvements in social networking and mobile computing platforms (led by Facebook + Apple ecosystems) are fundamentally changing ways people communicate with each other and ways developers / advertisers / vendors reach consumers.

Mobile devices will evolve as remote controls for ever expanding types of real-time cloud-based services, including emerging category of location-based services, creating opportunities + dislocations, empowering consumers in unprecedented + transformative ways.

Carriers in USA / W. Europe Face Surging Network Demand But Uncertain Economics.

Global mobile IP traffic likely to grow 66x by 2013E (with 130% CAGR), per Cisco. Increasing 3G / smartphone penetration + emerging usage models (such as video / audio streaming) likely to put significant stress on carrier wireless networks.

Carriers will ultimately need to compete on strength of their macro networks, plus availability of Wi-Fi. Scale in mobile market share / full network sharing agreements / co-operation with fixed / Wi-Fi providers will be key.

Pricing decisions will be driven by competitive pressure, but will need to take account of potential for VoIP to erode voice revenue. Tiered data pricing (speed, quantity) will likely be key to growing revenue long-term.

Wi-Fi Providing Some Relief to Challenged 3G Networks

Key Theme # 7

Regulators Can Help Advance / Slow Mobile Internet Evolution

Potential Supports:

1. Net neutrality enforcement = key to drive decentralized mobile Internet innovation. Key question whether regulators allow continued blocking of bandwidth-intensive apps on mobile or leave it to mobile operators to adopt tiered bandwidth pricing.
2. International data roaming price ceilings (price reductions of >50%) should encourage mobile Internet usage, particularly in Europe.

Potential Drags:

1. Copyright protection - proposed laws (France, UK, Sweden) to cut off persistent mobile Internet illegal file sharers likely to encourage development of mobile payment system, but could increase overhead for carriers.
2. Zoning laws could continue to slow 3G network rollout – but network sharing (as shown by Vodafone + O2 in W. Europe) may be a partial answer.
3. China / India 3G licenses (issued in 1/09 / expected in CQ4:09E, respectively) reshape competitive landscape for carriers. High license prices or standards confusion could impede rollout / adoption.

STOCK RATINGS

Morgan Stanley uses a relative rating system using terms such as Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated or Underweight (see definitions below). Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold and sell. Investors should carefully read the definitions of all ratings used in Morgan Stanley Research. In addition, since Morgan Stanley Research contains more complete information concerning the analyst's views, investors should carefully read Morgan Stanley Research, in its entirety, and not infer the contents from the rating alone. In any case, ratings (or research) should not be used or relied upon as investment advice. An investor's decision to buy or sell a stock should depend on individual circumstances (such as the investor's existing holdings) and other considerations.

Global Stock Ratings Distribution

(as of September 30, 2009)

For disclosure purposes only (in accordance with NASD and NYSE requirements), we include the category headings of Buy, Hold, and Sell alongside our ratings of Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight. Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold, and sell but represent recommended relative weightings (see definitions below). To satisfy regulatory requirements, we correspond Overweight, our most positive stock rating, with a buy recommendation; we correspond Equal-weight and Not-Rated to hold and Underweight to sell recommendations, respectively.

Stock Rating Category	Coverage Universe		Investment Banking Clients (IBC)
	Count	% of Total	Count	% of Total IBC	% of Rating Category
Overweight/Buy	843	36%	259	39%	31%
Equal-weight/Hold	1062	45%	314	47%	30%
Not-Rated/Hold	26	1%	3	0%	12%
Underweight/Sell	412	18%	89	13%	22%
Total	2,343		665

Data include common stock and ADRs currently assigned ratings. An investor's decision to buy or sell a stock should depend on individual circumstances (such as the investor's existing holdings) and other considerations. Investment Banking Clients are companies from whom Morgan Stanley or an affiliate received investment banking compensation in the last 12 months.
